Alma Mater

Lambuth to thee belongs
Our loyalty and thus in song
We lift our voices unto thee
Our Alma Mater ever be.
As we come with dreams of youth
Let us leave with purest truth.
Raise the lamp, the white and blue
For whatsoever things are true,
Whatsoever things are true.

Whatsoever Things Are True

The Lambuth experience can be summarized as a quest for Truth. The years spent in this sheltered environment are used to begin a search for truth in self, truth in others, and truth in the world. Such a quest for universal truth is not to be taken lightly. In celebrating one hundred fifty years of the Lambuth tradition, we celebrate everyone who has begun a continuing search for truth here. At this special place, students gain a desire to seek the truth, a knowledge of the truth, and the strength to accept the truth: "Whatsoever things are true . . . meditate on these things." Take time to meditate on the noble pursuit of Truth.

COMMUNITY

Composed of students, faculty, staff, alumni, and others, the Lambuth community provides great strength to the university itself. This community is more than a group of people who love and support Lambuth; it is the very heart and soul behind this institution. The spirit of the Lambuth community is what draws more and more students to enroll here.

This sense of community is similar to a sense of family. Anyone who sets foot on this campus immediately feels love and acceptance. This openness and warmth are very important parts of Lambuth life.

As human beings, we all search for a feeling of community with our fellow man. Here at Lambuth, this sense of community can be achieved. Lambuth becomes a home for many students because of the genuine concern shown by everyone associated with the university.

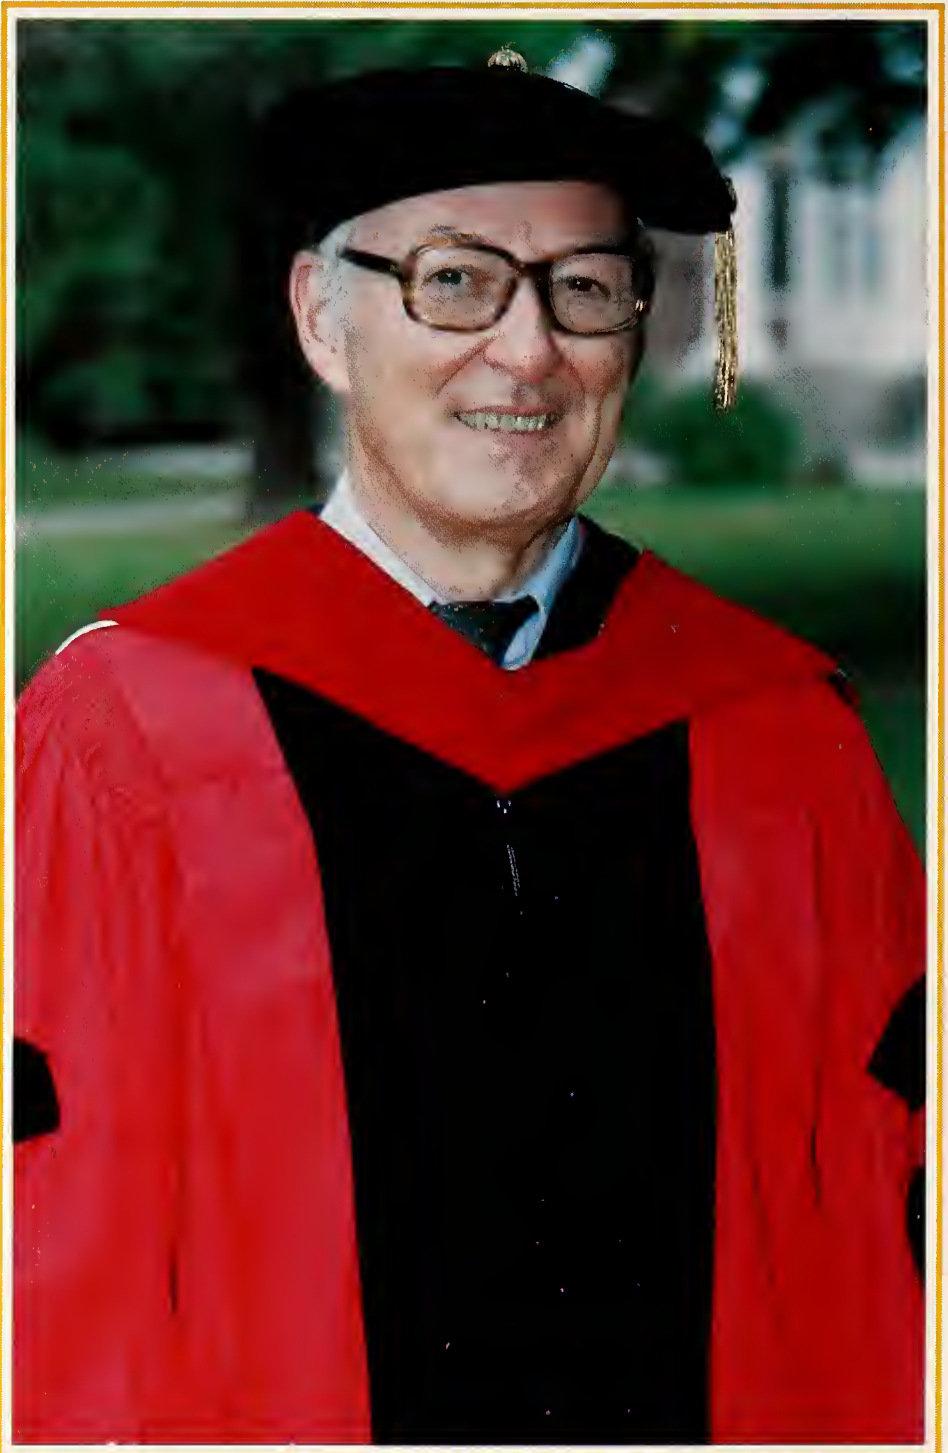

Top Left: By supporting the IU football team (and especially #45), Julie Rickman adds to the spirit of the game. Top Middle: Part of Lambuth's sense of community comes from the presence of international students who are visiting from foreign countries. Top Right: It's all about working together. The cheerleaders are a fine example of what community is. Bottom Left: Dr. Yancy graciously buys some candy from Missy Wilkerson and Mary Elizabeth Thompson. Bottom Middle: Already making a reputation at Lambuth, Freshman John Dell catches with Mike Lowery. Bottom Right: Party teamwork from some members of the soccer team shows what teamwork is all about.

Celebrating with . . . FACULTY

The Lambuth faculty is definitely something worth celebrating. The vitality and dedication of the professors on this campus is phenomenal. Whether lecturing in a classroom or walking across campus, the instructors are consistently receptive to questions and comments; this openness encourages learning and achievement.

The Lambuth faculty members are unique in that they invite personal relationships. A professor's door is never truly closed to the students of this campus; in fact, students are expected to have personal contact with their professors.

Simply put, our professors believe that they are at this institution to teach the students. With the student body as their top priority, the faculty serve and enlighten those who attend Lambuth. The tradition of outstanding academic leadership is one that Lambuth can be extremely proud of.

Top Left: One of the most beloved professors on Lambuth's campus, Dr. Brady Whitehead is dressed in his academic regalia. The impact he has made here has affected everyone. FRIENDS

Perhaps friends are the easiest thing to celebrate at Lambuth. After all, a friend's purpose is to provide support and happiness. Friendships at LU are especially valuable because of the unique college environment and the uniqueness of Lambuth.

Of course college friendships are valuable; college is a time of both independence and dependence. The friends made in college help solve the major problems of life and some of the minor ones.

However, Lambuth is especially nurturing to friendships. The inhabitants of this campus are extremely warm and friendly. Rarely is someone found who is unwilling to form a new friendship. This atmosphere allows friends to meet, and it also encourages the development of friendships. Through campus activities, shared interests, or simple physical proximity, people meet and become friends. These friendships begin at college, but they do not end with graduation. These bonds are lifelong and will continue to be a source of strength.

Do you remember the time when you came to college and discovered that you only had to attend sixteen hours of class in a whole week? The free time seemed boundless. Now, you probably laugh at your misjudgement. Although physically being in class does not take up that much time, class work certainly does. Plus ball practice, plus chapter meetings, plus band rehearsal . . .

Fortunately, students do manage to spend some time outside of meetings and practice. This free time is frequently not free at all. It is often spent studying or catching up on lost sleep. Sometimes, though, it is spent socializing with friends. These late night trips to Perkins, lazy afternoons spent outside, and Thursday nights in general serve as great stress relievers. Also, they remind students to keep everything in perspective. A night off every once in a while is good for the soul.

The 150th year anniversary of Lambuth is ultimately concerned with the celebration of tradition. Lambuth's tradition is the substance that binds the students of today with those from years gone by. A sense of continuity is obtained from the ceremonies and celebrations that form Lambuth's traditional history.

Perhaps just as important as the spellbinding ceremonies such as opening convocation and the raising of the colors are the everyday traditions at Lambuth. No matter when a student attended the school, he or she can remember late nights in the library, long lunches eaten with friends, and sporting events spent cheering for the blue and white. These traditions may not seem substantial, but they are definitely a vital part of the Lambuth experience.

In Lambuth's 150th year, the traditions of the university should be glorified and thoroughly enjoyed. Whether official ceremonies or casual habits, Lambuth's traditions are what make it truly unique.

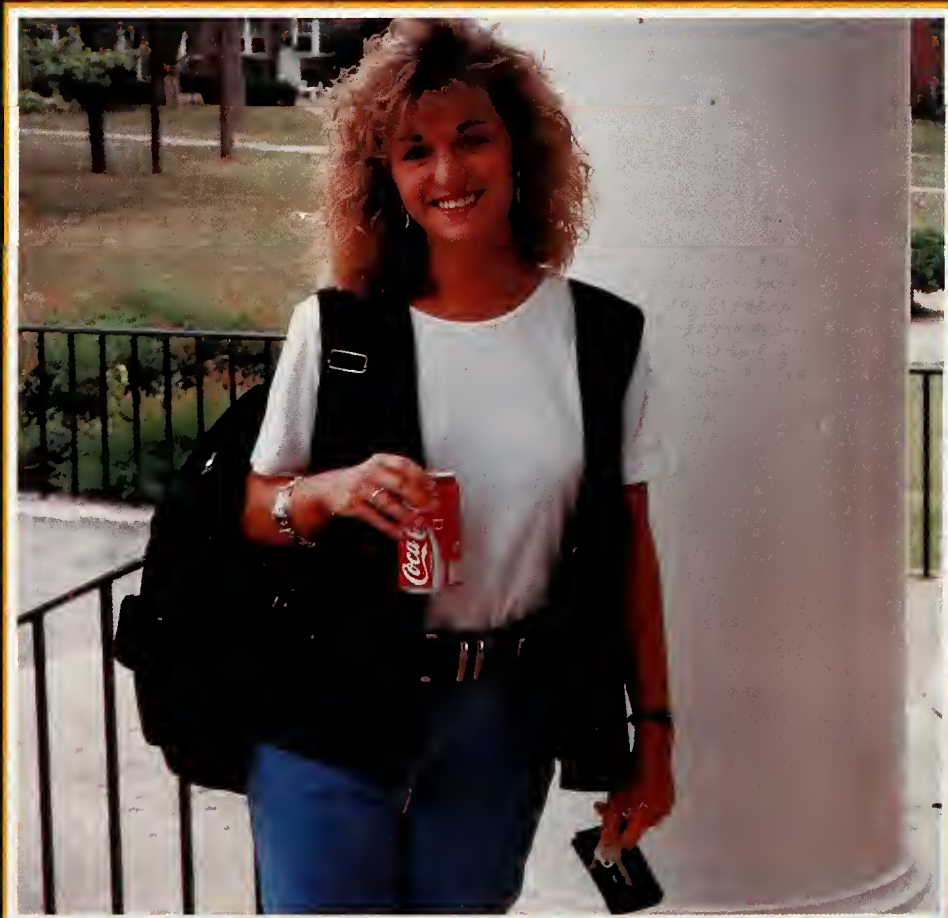

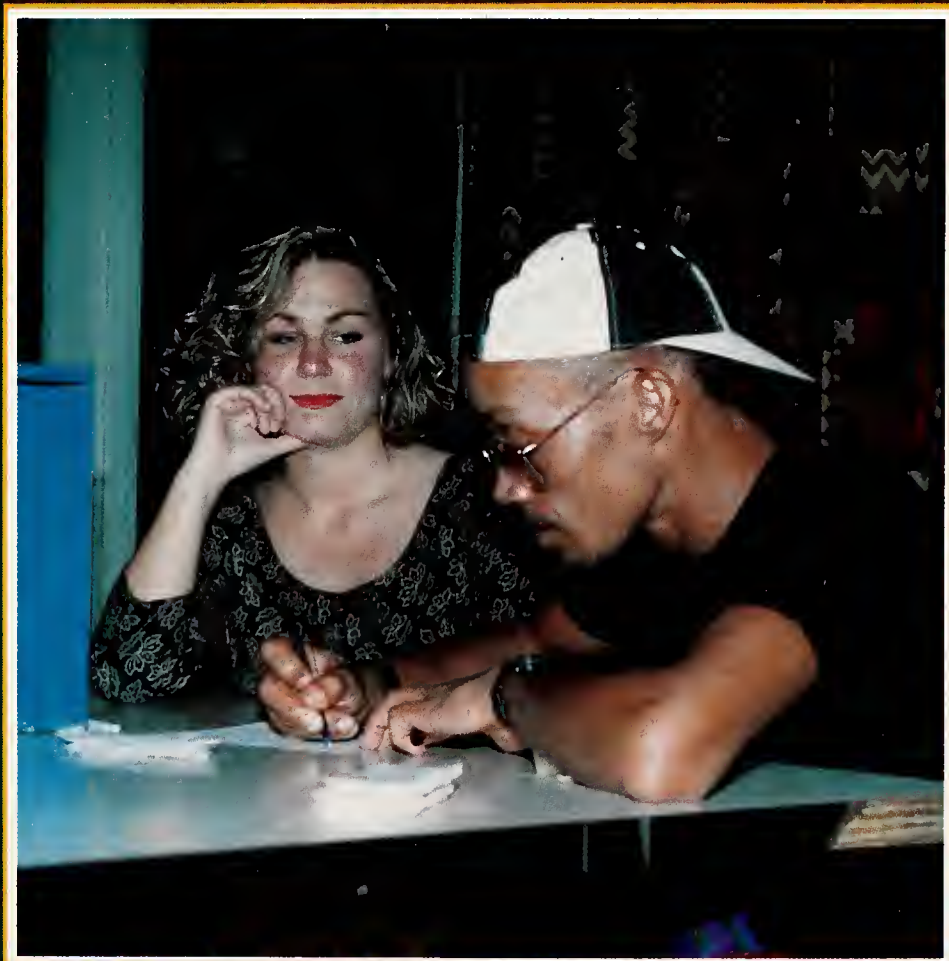

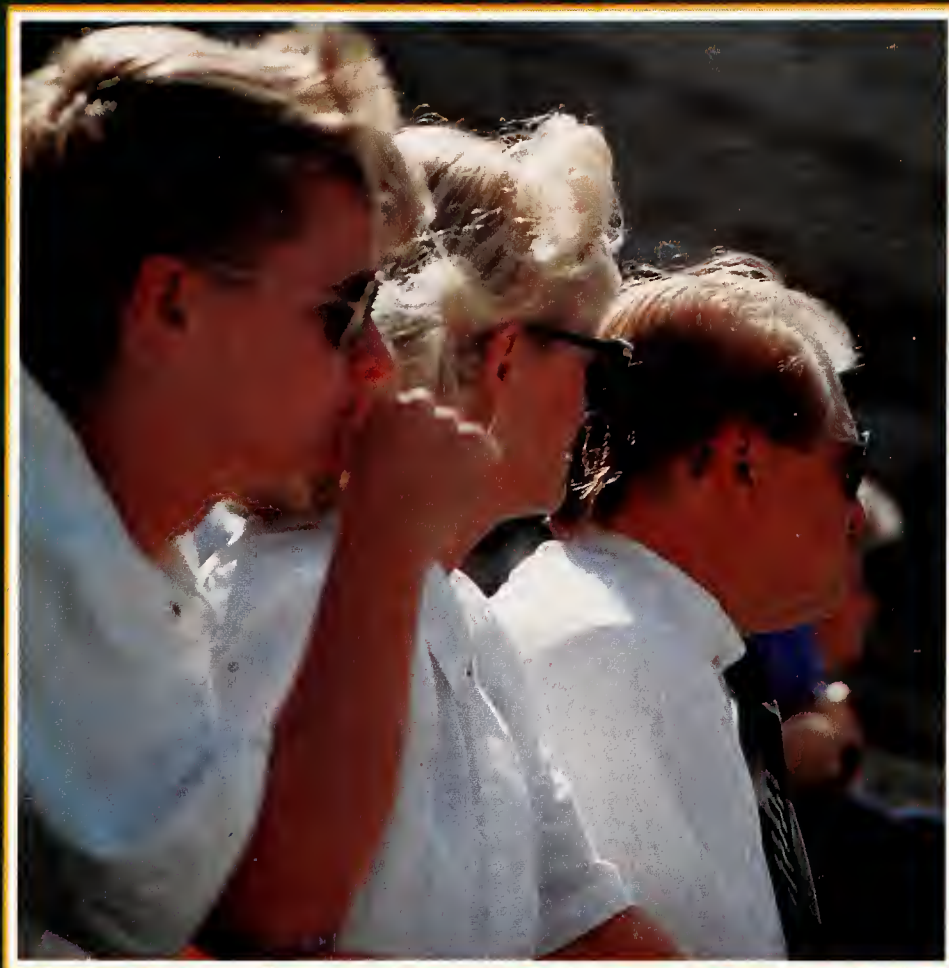

Top Left: Raising both the American flag and the ceremonial 150th anniversary flag, Angela Hughes, Scott Golden, and Joey Hassell carry on the tradition of the raising of the colors. Top Middle: At the groundbreaking for the new dorm, Lori Davis, Joe Eskridge, and Lisa Spivey represent the next generation of staff members. Top Right: Zeus, the Screamin' War Eagle, has quickly become a familiar, even traditional, face at Lambuth sporting events. Bottom Left: Gary Hellman recognizes the oldest of Lambuth's traditions — studying. Greek All-Sing Lambuth University's Greek All Sing, a traditional fundraising event sponsored by the Panhellenic and Interfraternity Councils, was held on March 7, 1993, in the Athletic Center's gymnasium. The annual event's profits were donated to the Center for Adult Reading and Enrichment (CARE). However, All-Sing is not only a charitable activity, but it is also a highly competitive production.

Kappa Alpha's salute to America included the patriotic melodies of "You're a Grand Ole Flag" and "The Marine Corps Hymn." The brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon took the audience into a whole new world to receive third place in the competition. Their performance included a variety of songs from Walt Disney's Aladdin. Alpha Omicron Pi dazzled the audience to a second place win by performing songs with a vaudeville theme, including "Hello My Baby" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Phi Mu Fraternity for Women swept the spotlight for first place with their Sister Act performance, including songs such as "I Will Follow Him" and "Shout!"

Top: What do you get when you mix the AOPi's with some vaudeville numbers? A Great Show! Right: The KA's pay tribute to their country with several spine-tingling numbers.

Top: No, it's not Saint Mary's Order, it's the Phi Mu's doing their imitation of the smash hit Sister Act. Left: You never had a friend like the Sig Ep's!

"The Diviners"

The Diviners, Lambuth Theatre's second production of the 1992-93 season, ran from February 9-13.

The tragic story of The Diviners revolves around a fourteen-year-old boy named Buddy Layman (played by Jamil Al-Chokhachi). As a small youth, Buddy experiences the trauma of losing his mother and almost drowning. As a result, Buddy is left partially brain damaged and hysterically fearful of water. Because of his fear, Buddy never bathes; therefore, he is infected with ringworm. However, Buddy is also left with the gift of a diviner — the gift to find water and the gift to predict rain. Throughout the story, Buddy finds great companionship in a man passing through, ironically named C. C. Showers (played by Cary Vaughn), a smooth talking ex-preacher. With the help of C. C. Showers and Jennie Layman (played by Amber Beuerlein), Buddy's sister, Buddy is finally convinced to wash his feet.

* Buddy places his feet in the very same lake that claimed his mother, only to get caught by the current.

In the meantime, C. C. Showers is tending to the townspeople and discovers that it is too late to save buddy. Thus, the tragedy ends with the sad death of Buddy Layman and his final discovery that life does exist among the waters.

Other cast members included Farris Layman (played by J. D. Sargent), Norma Henshaw (played by Marilyn McIntire), Darlene Henshaw (played by Robin Cherry), Goldie Short (played by Aaron Lancaster), Basil Bennett (played by Daniel Eanes), Luella Bennett (played by Naomi Senkbeil), Melvin Wilder (played by Mac Lower), and Dewey Maples (played by Scott Hume).

"The Fantastiks"

After thirty-eight years of service, Jesse Byrum presented his final production, The Fantastiks, to the Lambuth Community. As a musical of true life experiences, the play ran April 14-18, 1993.

The Fantastiks is a story of true love and true pain. Matt (played by Jamil Al-Chokhachi) and Louisa (played by Carol Ann Lamons) are forbidden to see each other by their fathers Huckabee (played by J. D. Sargent) and Belomy (played by Marty Anderson). However, in all actuality, the fathers planned the feud many years ago in order for the children to disobey and to fall madly in love. To bring a climax and an end to this feud, the fathers hire a professional abductionist, who goes by the name El Gallo (played by Cary Vaughn). El Gallo hires two other actors, Henry (played by David Pyrom) and Mortimor (played by Carter Fulghum), to help stage the abduction of Louisa. In honor of his true love, Matt kills Henry, Mortimor, and finally El Gallo. However, a later fight between the two love birds sends Matt on a mission to travel the world. He returns battered and bruised only to realize his love for Louisa will never die. Matt's quote, "Without a hurt, the heart is hollow," definitely illustrates the true pain that one must suffer to be in love. In addition to the above characters, special recognition must also go to the Mute (played by Marilyn McIntire), who, through her actions, conveyed the true feelings of love and pain so dear to the audience throughout the play.

Honors Day

The annual Honors Day Convocation was held on April 22, 1993. This ceremony honors the outstanding members of Lambuth's student body, faculty, and administration.

Among the 1993 recipients were Professor Robin Rash, Billie P. Exum Outstanding Educator Award; Diane Rash, SGA Golden Beak Award; Carol Anne Lamons and Rod Griggs, Luther L. Gobbel Freshman Citizenship Award; Penny Weaver, Franklin K. Billings Sophomore Award; and Angela Hughes, Alpha Xi Delta Junior Award. Among those receiving the highest academic honors were Academic Marshalls Seth Drown and Marla

Eggers and Lambuth Scholars Karen Ginn, Douglas Mayo, and Seth Drown.

Graduation

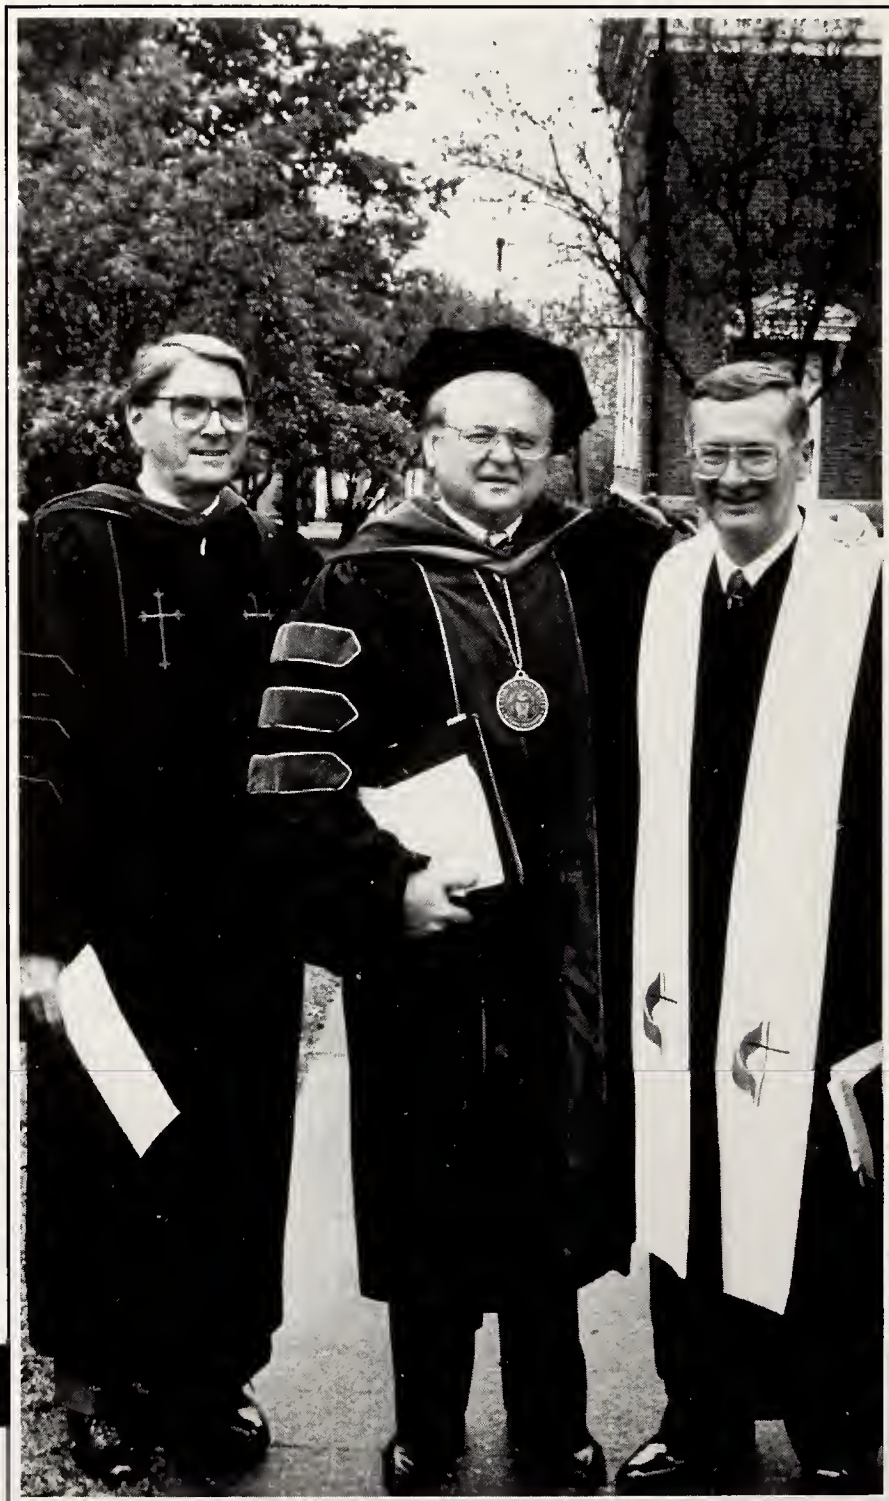

Lambuth University celebrated its 145th commencement exercises on May 2, 1993. On this special day, Lambuth conferred one hundred seventy-two bachelor degrees and two honorary doctoral degrees.

Honorary doctoral degrees were conferred upon two individuals for their contributions to the area of education and to their community. Reverend Benny D. Hopper, pastor of Asbury United Methodist Church in Memphis, received the Doctor of Divinity degree. W. W. Dyer, a former trustee of Lambuth, from Paducah, Kentucky, received the Doctor of Humanities degree.

Also, three seniors of the graduating class received awards. Jeff Hanvey, from Cordova, Alabama, received the Sigma Kappa Scholarship Award for the highest scholastic average at Lambuth. The Alpha Omicron Pi Service Award, given to the student who has served the university through character and ideals, leadership, scholarship, and involvement with student activities, was awarded to Anissa Bailey, of Memphis, Tennessee. The R. E. Womack Outstanding Senior Award was presented to Valerie Buttrey, of Fairview, Tennessee, for her services and her loyalty to Lambuth University.

The afternoon was filled with excitement as spouses, friends, and family members gathered together for this special event.

Homecoming

As always, Homecoming week was full of exciting activities. Homecoming Chairpersons, Erin Harper and Kevin Walkup spent many hours planning events to keep the Lambuth Spirit up.

Homecoming was centered around the University's 150th Birthday Celebration, and many alumni attended the game against Bethel to root their Alma Mater on to victory, and they were very successful as Lambuth easily won their Homecoming game.

The Homecoming Royalty consisted of seniors, Michelle Dally, Angela Hughes, and Arina Neely. Monica Cates, a junior, Blair Geise, a sophomore, and Wanda Terry were the attendants for Lambuth's special royalty.

"I Do, I Do"

The first production under the direction of Dr. Florence Dyer, I Do! I Do! was the fall presentation of the Lambuth Theater. It ran from October 28 until October 30.

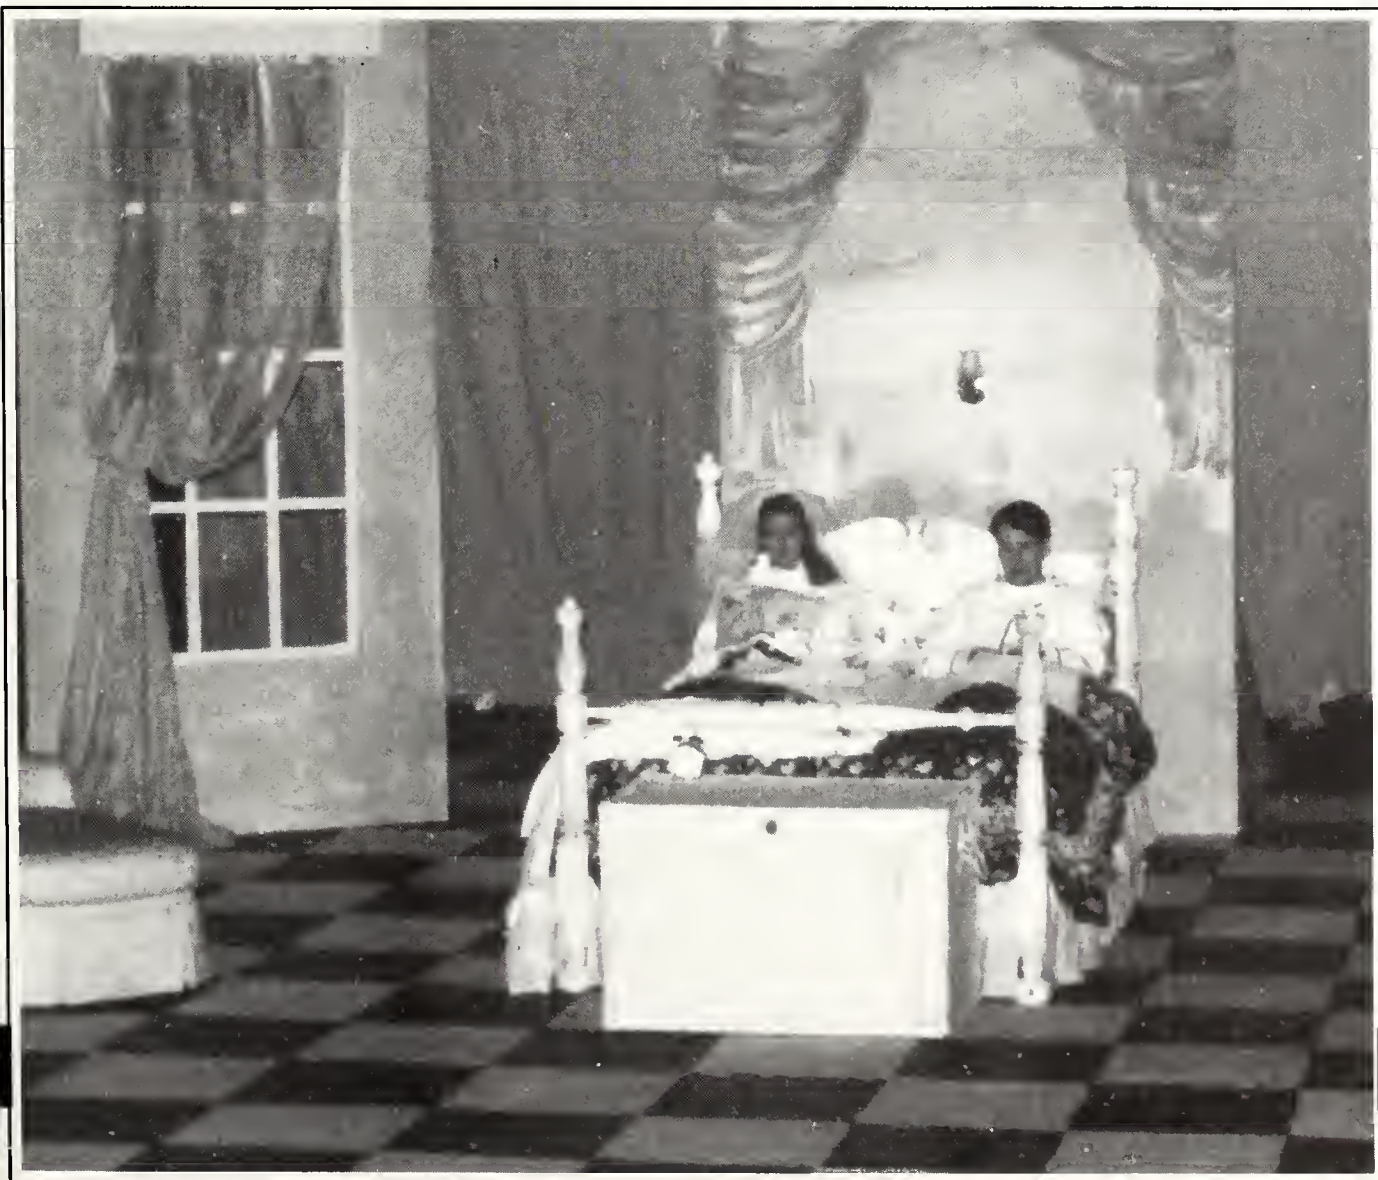

The play is the story of a couple, Agnes and Michael, and how they cope with the troubles of marriage and life in general. The drama follows the couple from their wedding day, through the births of their two children, and to their eventual retirement. The play was a musical comedy and was filled with several delightful musical numbers. The two leads in the play were Jeni Stephens as Agnes and Joe Jennings as Michael. These two remarkable actors were the only two characters in the work. They had the monumental task of carrying the entire play. Each received rave reviews, and the Lambuth Theater season was off to a notable start.

Miss Lambuth

The 1993 Miss Lambuth Pageant, held on Saturday, November 13, 1992, was centered around country music. The Co-Chairmen, who contributed their time to plan this production, with the help of their committee, were Joey Hassell and Laurinda Drown. Hassell and Drown also served as the Master and Mistress of Ceremonies.

The evening's entertainment was provided by Marty Anderson, Jeni Stephens, Debbie Beddocs, Joe Eskridge, and Miss Lambuth 1992, Melinda Milligan. They performed various country hits. Lisa Divito and Lori Trew also entertained the audience with a lyrical ballet.

Miss Congeniality was Gwen Larrick, a junior from Memphis, TN. The talent Award was presented to Jill DeLoach, who presented a crowd pleasing southern gospel medley. Jennifer Baker, a sophomore from Halls, TN, scored highest in the personal interview section of the competition. Second Runner-up was Gwen Larrick. Jennifer Baker was First Runner-up. Jill DeLoach was named Miss Lambuth 1993. Jill will compete in The Miss Tennessee Scholarship Pageant in June.

Who's Who

The annual convocation to recognize those students named as members of Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities was held Thursday, November 18, 1993. Recommended by a committee of Lambuth faculty and students, these twenty students represent other students at Lambuth who have excelled in scholarship, leadership, academic, and extracurricular activities. The special recognition given to these students reflects the university's recognition of all students and their achievements.

After the prelude and Dr. Thorton's invocation, Dean Shustowski formally welcomed the students. President Boyd then presented the nominees. Dr. Larry Ray, the featured speaker, challenged the students to strive for excellence. Following the convocation, the traditional luncheon was held for the recipients and their parents.

150th Celebration

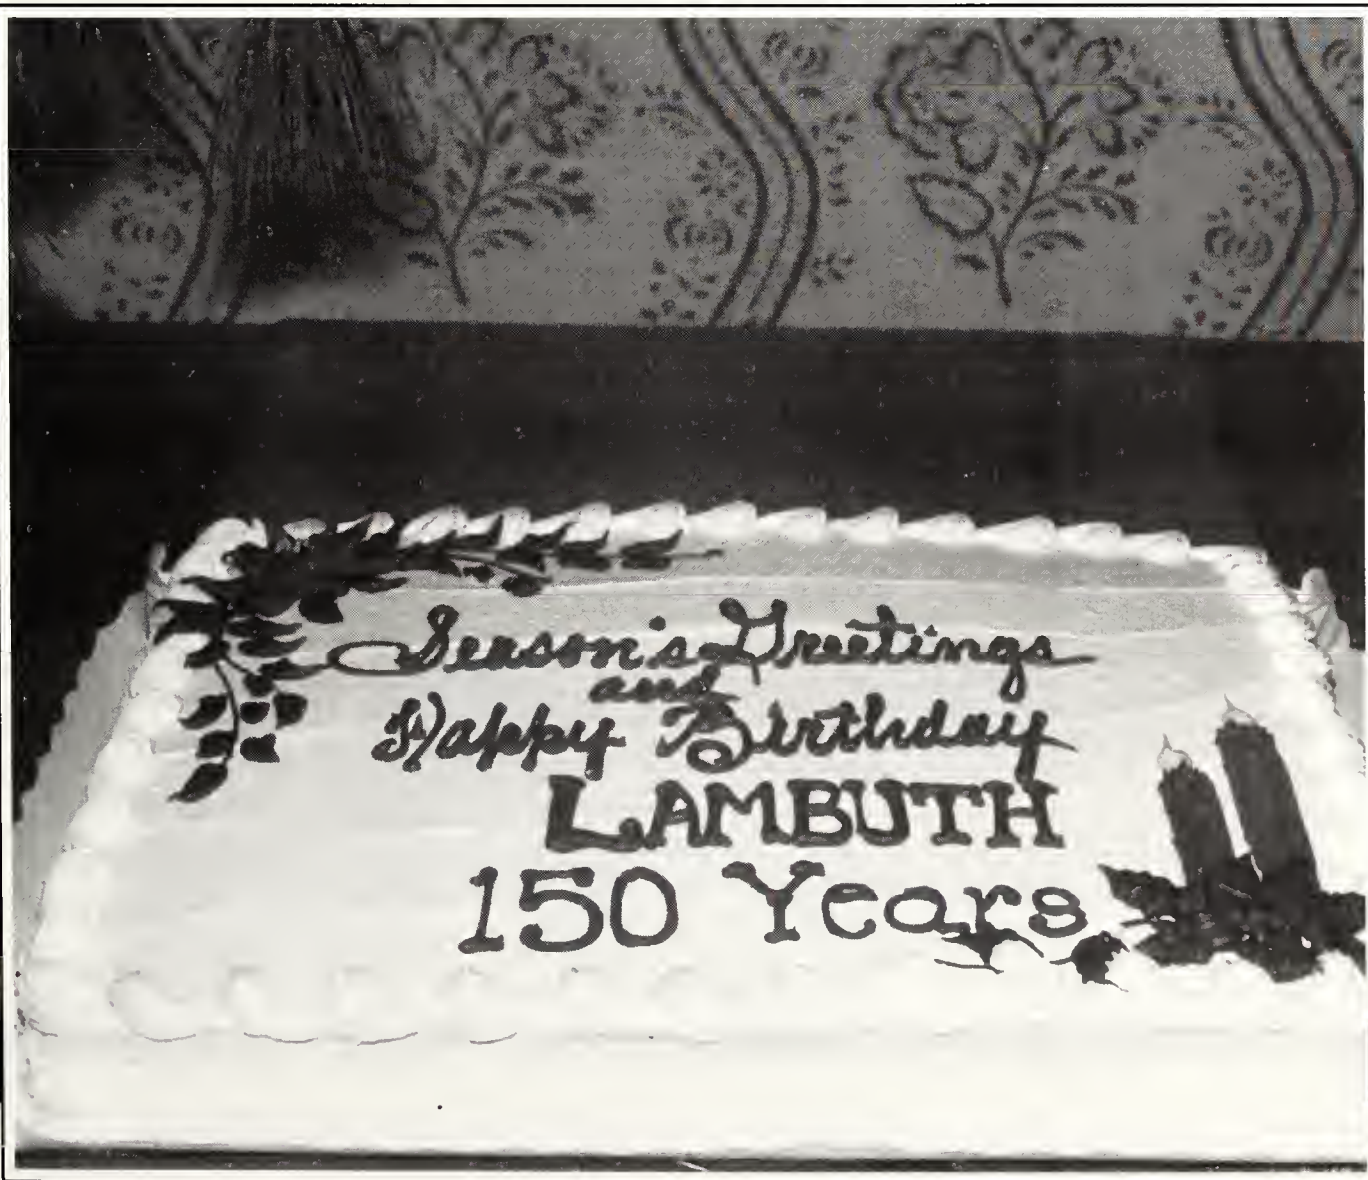

On December 2nd, 1993, Lambuth University marked its sesquicentennial celebration. This special anniversary was recognized by such distinguished guests as Dr. and Mrs. Yusuki Kawarabayashi of Tokyo, Japan, Dr. Arata Marumo of Nishinomiya, Japan, Dr. Kenneth B. Wilson of Oxford, England, and Dr. Makoto Fujita of New Orleans, LA. The day-long celebration began with a reception in the foyer of Jones Hall, where presentations and gifts were given to the distinguished guests. Following the reception, Lambuth's 150th year celebration proceeded to Womack Memorial Chapel, where the Lambuth University Choir and Symphonic Band performed an eloquent selection of music. Finally, the anniversary celebration concluded with an International Buffet in the Colonial Room, where President Boyd honored Lambuth's namesake, Dr. Walter Russell Lambuth. Also, the preparation of a time capsule, to be opened in the year 2043, was presented so that others might see Lambuth's direction and path. Such a time of celebration and remembrance marked the continuation of Lambuth's strive for excellence.

"Twain by the Tale"

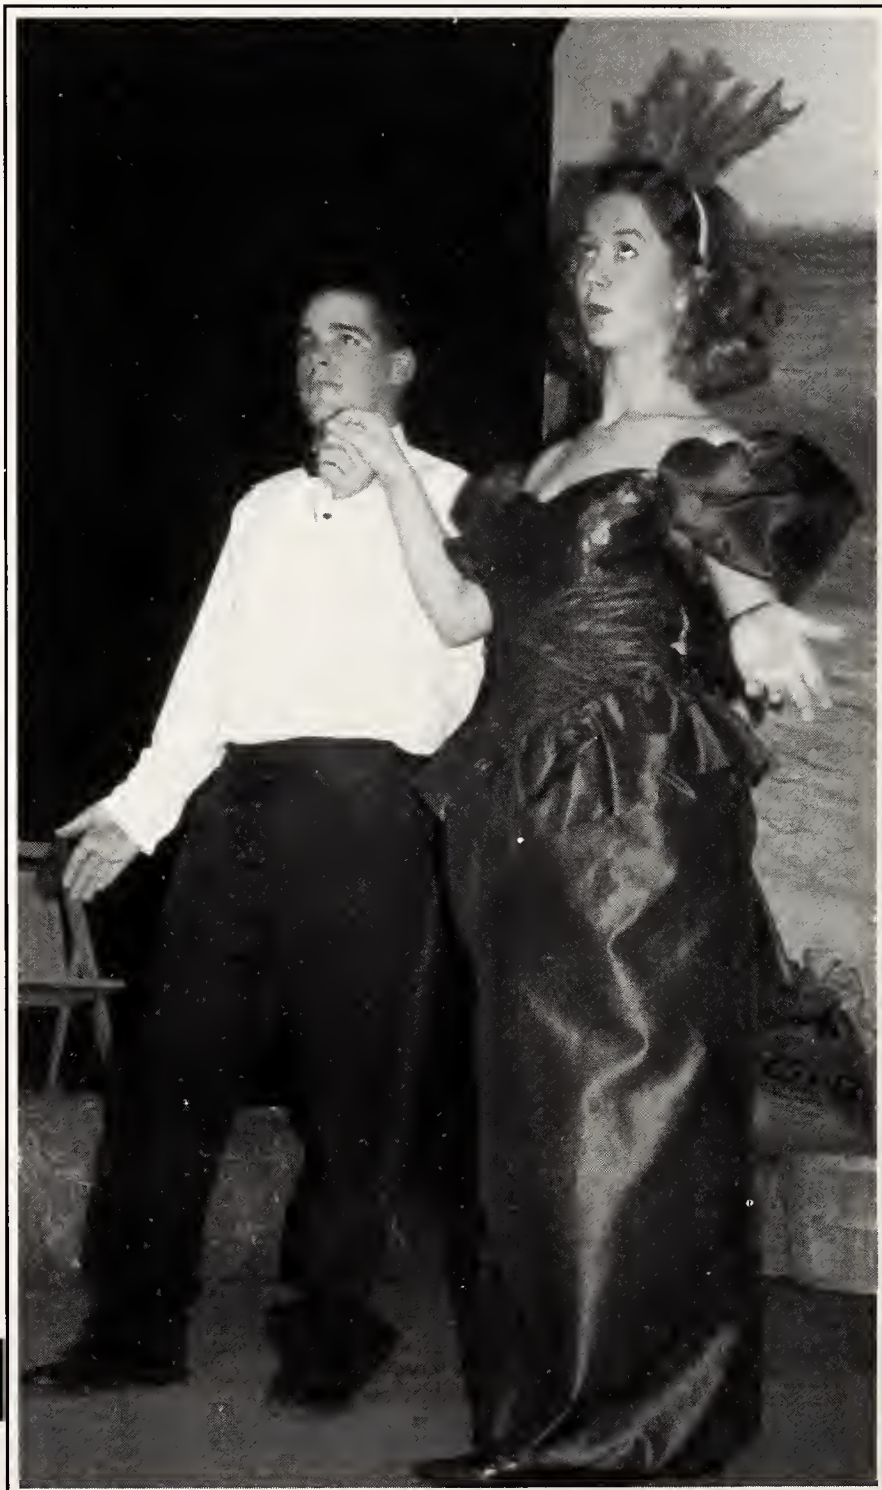

The winter production of the Lambuth Theater was Twain by the Tale, a play based on the writings and lectures of Mark Twain. It ran from December 3 until December 4.

The actors and actresses in the play represented a variety of characters, many of which were from Twain's famous novels Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. The performers also recited various excerpts from Twain's lectures. This production was the first of the Reader's Theater. Both Dr. Florence Dyer and Dr. Gary Drum assisted the direction. Those performing in Twain by the Tale were as follows: Gwen Larrick (Actress One), Leah Kreutzer (Actress Two), Melanie Speight (Actress Three), Aaron Lancaster (Actress Four), Robin Cherry (Actress Five), Chet Dixon (Actor One), Jamil Al-Chokhachi (Actor Two), Matt Winstead (Actor Three), Casey Griffin (Actor Four), Cary Vaughn (Actor Five), Marty Anderson (Actor Six), and Charanjite Singh (Actor Seven).

Greeks

Blair Geise
Section Editor

Uniquely Greek

On the campus of Lambuth University, there is a select group of students who are extremely diverse, yet amazingly similar. These students are the Greeks of Lambuth. Sharing terms like "rush," "bid," "function," "badge," and "ritual," the members of the campus Greek System continue to proudly take part in each of their individual heritages and strive to uphold the noble ideals underlying all Greek organizations. With the common purposes of helping members develop into well-rounded people and of providing outgoing participants in the Lambuth community, all six of the active Greek organizations provide a kind of "home" for their members. Lambuth Greeks experience a different aspect of campus life while remaining a vital part of the Lambuth family. A portion of their college experience will forever be . . . Uniquely Greek!

Panhellenic

While Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority functions on its own, the sororities of Alpha Omicron Pi and Phi Mu belong to a governing Panhellenic Organizations on campus. The word "Panhellenic" comes from the Greek and literally means "all Greek"; thus, the purpose of this body is to organize and maintain a unified Greek system. Organizing all-Greek social service projects is a main goal of this body.

IFC

All campus fraternities also operate under a governing body called the Inter-Fraternity Council. Just as Panhellenic Council includes representatives from each sorority, so IFC is represented equally among fraternities. Likewise, both councils promote scholarship and high academic involvement through various programs and incentives. IVD provides another chance for Lambuth Greeks to unite.

The Lambuth Eagle Football team had a terrific winning season this year with 6 wins and 4 losses. Under the guidance of head coach Vic Wallace and assistant coaches Damon Bradford, Ricky Catlett, Terry Morris and Gunny Higgins, the Eagles have set 8 school records and received many individual conference and district awards. Mark Gadwell, Chris Hurt, JoJo Jones, Jason Dyer, and Corey Hill were chosen as all-conference players. Tom Rossi and Jay Emmons were named Academic All-Americans and JoJo Jones, Jason Dyer, Adam Toth, Mark Gadwell, Justin Taylor, Chris Miller, Tom Rossi, Todd Roland, Able Rizzo and Jari Utenin were named NAIA All-District players. JoJo Jones set 2 school records when he ran for 1,802 yards and scored 152 points in a season. Corey Hill broke the record for individual passing when he passed for 1,651 yards and 16 touchdowns. The team as a whole broke school records for rushing with a total of 2,671 yards, for passing, with a total of 1,971 yards and 19 touchdowns and for scoring, with a total of 399 points. This year the football team was only one touchdown away from being conference champions and going to the national play-offs, and since they only have 3 graduating seniors, they say that their goal for next season is to be the conference champions and win the national play-offs.

The Lambuth Eagles Men's Soccer team dazzled their fans this year by winning the Tennessee Collegiate Athletic Conference Championship in the team's second year of existence. Under the guidance of head coach Mark Johnson, this team of 27 players kicked their way to the top. Team leaders, Timmy Ostrom, Lee Mosley, and J. T. Hall were named all-conference. In their winning season of 10 wins and 9 losses, the team proudly upset the Univ. of Alabama at Birmingham with a score of 2 to 1. This team is very proud of its success and certainly deserves recognition. Congratulations team.

This year the Lady Eagle Soccer team has made quite an improvement from last year. Although the team lost 6 players to injuries, they still established a record of 6 wins, 7 losses and 1 tie. Two players, Julie Meadow and Stacy Russo were named to the all-conference team. The team, which was not expected to do this well, was one of the four teams chosen to play in the district play-offs. The girls, with only enough players to participate, put up a good fight, but went out in the first round to Lee College who ended up winning the championship. Way to go team!

The 1993 Lady Eagle Volleyball team improved their record this season with 14 wins and 21 losses. There were 4 girls, Colleen Jensen, Melissa Faust, Brandi McNeil and Laurie Zenk, who were chosen as TCAC Scholar Athletes. Colleen Jensen was also chosen to the TCAC all-conference first team and nominated to be an NAIA All American Scholar Athlete. Under the guidance of head coach Lori Davis, these girls are improving every day and are expected to have a terrific season next year also.

The Lambuth University Women's basketball team is trying to gain more wins in order to keep up with last year's successful season of 26:8. Head coach Steve Patterson says that the girls have had to struggle a bit since they lost a few players to graduation last year, but this year's team still has many strong points. Senior Missy Herndon was named to the all-district and all-conference teams last year and was an All-American honorable mention. So far this year, Missy holds the number one free throw percentage in the country at 93%. Coach Patterson is pleased with the season thus far and he expects the girls to hang in there and finish towards the top.

The Lambuth University men's basketball team is off to a good start this season under the leadership of head coach Tommy Russell and assistant coach Brad Jones. The team is having no trouble keeping up a winning season like last year's season of 19:13. Although starter Brandon Jones, Lambuth Male Athlete of the Year in 1993, graduated last May, the team is doing great with leader Sean Rogers who is currently seventh in the nation in assists. Harry Lynn made the All Tournament Team at this year's Bicentennial Exchange Club Tournament, and Sean made the All Tournament team at the annual Commissioner's Tournament. Coach Russell is pleased with this year's team and their success so far, and he expects even more success before the year is over.

The Lambuth Eagle men's tennis team has just completed its best regular season finish ever under second year coach, Chad Hebert. Team members have participated in not only their conference matches, but have also come out on top in many of the tournaments they have played in. So far this year the men have had individual victories over Vanderbilt, The University of Tennessee at Charanooga and Martin. Coach Hebert says that the men are very strong in their sport, and he expects them to be contenders for the conference championship title.

The Lambuth University women's tennis team had a good fall pre-season this year after graduating five top players last May. They participated in The Middle Tennessee State University Fall Classic and the Freed-Hardeman Classic, coming out close to the top in both. The team has had a good recruiting season as well, adding nationally ranked player, Vicki Zavala, Tatiana Meyer, Sarah Baxter, Christy Wade, Mary Nell Roberts and Kelsey Smith. Coach Hebert is expecting a great season out of these girls, especially senior leader, Michelle Dally and second year player, Amy Leeper. The team has been conditioning and practicing daily to prepare for this year's season and they are hoping for the best.

The Lambuth University golf team is in its second year of existence under the leadership of Coach Joey Hickman, golf professional at Highland Green golf course. Last year, despite the team's losing season, Chris Culvert won the TCAC conference championship in Nashville at The Legends Golf Course. To the satisfaction of Coach Hickman, the Eagle golfers have continued to develop their skills through commitment and dedication. He looks forward to a great recruiting season and an even better golf season.

The Lambuth University Lady Eagles softball team had a winning season last spring under the guidance of head coach Larry Eddings and assistant coach Mark Dunn with an overall record of 29:16 and a conference record of 16:4. They placed second in the conference and beat two ranked teams to make it to the play-offs where they were beaten in the last round by the fourth-ranked team in the nation. Team members, Stacy Ward, Kristen Skinner, Jennifer Wilson, Danya House and Leslie Tosh were named to the TCAC All Conference team and Danya House was also named to the All District team. Coach Eddings was very pleased with the outcome of his team's season and expects an even better outcome this year.

The Lambuth University Eagles baseball team had its strongest season yet last year with an overall record of 29:13:1 and a conference record of 15:7:1. Under the guidance of head coach Randy Harrell and assistant coach Mark Whitworth, the team practiced long and hard every day to become the best they have ever been. The team's top two players, John Griffin and Mike Huffman were chosen to the all-district team and to the all-conference team. Griffin received some even bigger awards by being named the TCAC Player of the Year in both the conference and the district. In the middle of their season the men experienced a 13-game winning streak which helped them to the second place rank in the conference. From there the men traveled to Nashville to play in the district play-offs where they finished in third place. This year's team has not only gained some great new players but also two new assistant coaches, Coach Mike Huffman and Coach Craig Hunt. Coach Harrell is very pleased with last year's team record, and he expects even more accomplishments from this season's team.

This year's football cheerleading squad held their spirits high as their team accumulated victory after victory. These eight girls kept school pride at a maximum level all season. Not only did they cheer the crowd on at all of the home games, but they also kept the traveling fans on their feet at the distant and cold away games. In return, these girls definitely deserve all of the spirit and applause that they have given us throughout the year.

The Lambuth University basketball cheerleaders have a new addition this year; they've added men to the squad. This addition has not only enabled the squad to build higher pyramids but it has also enabled them to build higher spirits among the crowd. Their sponsor is Lori Davis and their coach is Michael Parks, a male cheerleader from Memphis State. The squad has been a great success so far and with such young members hopes to have the same number of men, if not more, next year.

The Student Government Association consists of concerned students who participate in and contribute to University developments, concerns, and activities. In order to better serve the university, the SGA is divided into specialized committees which perform specific functions at various times of the year. There are committees to organize Homecoming week, to develop the Miss Lambuth Pageant, to encourage school spirit, to evaluate food service, to improve dorm life, and to monitor student affairs. In addition, this year, the SGA sponsored a Faculty/Staff Appreciation Luncheon, a Self-Defense Class, a Midnight Breakfast, and Community Service Projects with the Soup Kitchen and the C.P. Center. The SGA is governed by a select group of executive officers and is sponsored by the Student Life Office. Members of the SGA (pictured above) are as follows: Row 1: Carla Pollard, Angela Spralling, Angela Hughes, Carlie Patron, Melissa Faust, Blair Geise, Ben Lansdown, Chas Richardson, Russell Dyer, Row 2: Shane Doss, Eunice Humphreys, Amanda Mitchell, Sarah Vann, Stacey Foreman, Mary Elizabeth Thompson, Kara Krause, Kevin Walkup, Penny Weaver, Stephen Roberts, Row 3: Jennifer Rawls, Josie Craig, Monica Cates, Jeannette Lippy, Erin Harper, Angie Spencer, Lori Trew, Jeni Stephens, Joey Hassell, Joe Jennings, Scott Roberts, Brad Emerson, and Heather Hughes, adviser. ASSOCIATION

The Lantern staff works diligently throughout the fall, winter, and early spring to put together an anthology filled with the memories which capture the "Lambuth experience." Under the direction of Dr. Bob Hazlewood and Mr. Mark Walls, the Lantern staff spends countless hours writing copy, taking photographs, and designing pages to meet the many crucial deadlines of the student yearbook. Creating a reflection of life at Lambuth is the ultimate goal of the 1993-94 Lantern Staff.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

What's in a name? There is considerable evidence that the symbolic value of a name can be tremendous. At Lambuth University in recent times we have been discovering a deeper meaning in our name — Lambuth — taken from the great Bishop Walter Russell Lambuth.

In many ways we have found that our institutional name is almost as large and complex as the world it reflects. Lambuth University has a wide variety of denominations represented in its student body and, through its international student population, even has a variety of religions represented. This, of course, is the way a university should be. It should reflect the diversity and pluralism of the world that our students will encounter when they leave Lambuth.

But we go a step farther at Lambuth to make a critical difference through "the personal touch," especially the personal touch that finds its manifestation in our Christian Life Program on campus and through our Jane Hyde Scott Center for Christian Studies. The Center serves as the focal point for religious activity on campus and as an educational outreach component for the University throughout the Memphis Conference. Recently, the Center has even reached beyond the Conference into the nation as we have received requests from other institutions for information on how they may emulate our Center.

Most of you may be aware of the phenomenal growth that has occurred at Lambuth University. During six years the new student population has increased over 133 percent. This year the enrollment stands at 1,165, with additional growth planned toward 1,300.

In the face of this quantitative growth, qualitative growth has come as a by-product. And this is said, not with a sense of self-serving pride, but with a sense of the mission we at Lambuth have toward becoming an institutional leader in the national dialogue on superior higher education.

A necessary part of that mission, of course are, those values inherent in the Christian Liberal arts tradition at Lambuth University. We believe that Lambuth should offer opportunities for intellectual growth and exploration and for spiritual affirmation. We believe that education is a personal odyssey and does not lend itself well to the kind of "mass production" so prevalent in larger institutions. And . . . we believe that the university must be a pro-active participant in the debate about what kind of future our country and world should have.

You may be thinking, "That's quite a challenge for Lambuth!" And indeed it is. But we feel that both the church and the world can not expect anything less of us.

Lambuth's central mission is the education of undergraduates, and meeting that mission requires quality faculty and staff to promote the best possible educational experience. Given excellent and committed faculty, the curriculum (courses and academic programs) is a critical feature for a successful experience.

Within the existing curriculum we continue to plan the necessary changes that keep our offerings up to date and expose students to issues that are at the forefront of their disciplines. Our relatively new interdisciplinary programs in International Relations, Education, Human Ecology, and Athletic Training are examples of changes in the curriculum that have emerged as a consequence of new ways of understanding our world and new methodologies that have emerged in the more traditional fields of inquiry.

The impact of developments in computer and communications technology on the curriculum is not yet fully realized. Current efforts to complete the on-line catalog and library research databases will significantly influence how courses and curricula are structured. Expansion of the campus communication network is scheduled to begin and will result in residential halls being wired as well as offices and classrooms. Since our students will be moving on from Lambuth to careers in which computers and Communications technology will be absolutely integral, the use of these tools during one's undergraduate years can only enhance the value of their experience.

We must also pay careful attention to the world around us and the external forces that are shaping that world. We know that success in the next century will require real understanding of global issues. Whatever the field of study, our students must gain an appreciation of world cultures and what it means to communicate effectively across cultural boundaries. Current sister-institution relationships with Ming Chuan College, Taipei and Westminster College, Oxford will result in our first class of International Fellows spending a term of study at Oxford in 1994. Further off-campus study programs will be developed and offered to allow students and faculty to experience the challenges of life in another culture.

Finally, we must continually react to changes in student career aspirations, secondary school preparation, and not yet identified interests in various fields of study. The recent implementation of an enhanced Educational Support Program, the current development of a University Honors Program, the current development of a University Honors Program, and the continued growth of our non-traditional educational alternatives are just some of the ways the University is responding by modifying the curricula to better march student demand.

As we pause to celebrate our 150th anniversary this year, we are preparing for the future. We are building upon the talents of our students and faculty. And we are renewing our basic commitment to teaching and learning.

Student Life enjoyed another banner year of activities and enrollment growth. The Senior Commons project broke ground on September 6, 1993 providing a benchmark for student life and a beginning for celebration of our 150th year. New parking facilities, multiple athletic renovations, a library upgrade, new faculty, an international exchange program for student with Oxford and China and our sesquicentennial celebration mark this year more than any other as special.

A new student government office greeted S.G.A. president Angela Hughes and her executive committee and continued upgrading of Greek and international facilities as well as support for the Black Student Union gave the students confidence in their direction and appreciation for their leadership. Homecoming featured a sand volleyball tournament, a window decorating contest, the crowning of a new queen and a victory against Bethel in football. Leadership symposiums, concerts, comedians, dances and convocations filled co-curricular calendar and student participation reached record highs during homecoming week.

In our 150th year our namesake Dr. Walter Russell Lambuth would be proud of his university. These are great times to be at Lambuth as a student and 1993 will go down in history as a celebration of student life.

From the business office, computer center and maintenance, congratulations to the graduating seniors! We wish you success and satisfaction in your chosen walk of life, whatever it may be and wherever you may be led.

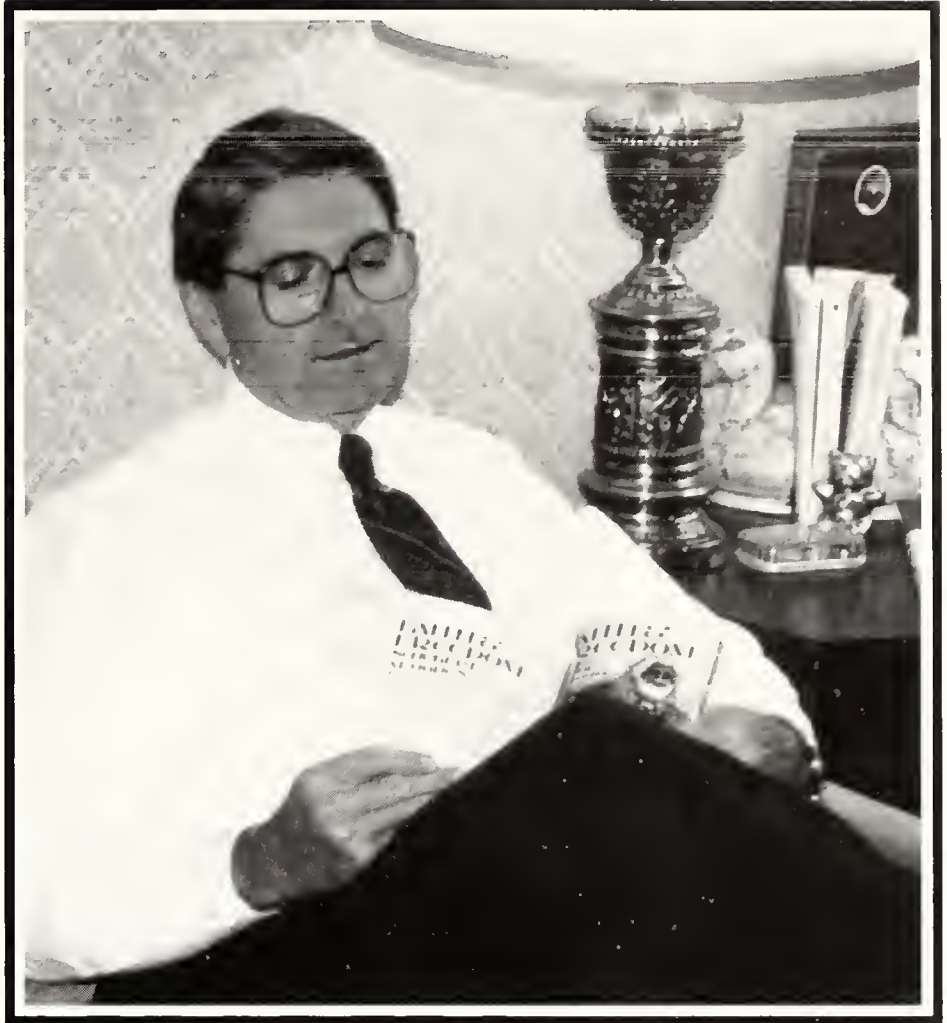

We hope we have served you well in our areas of responsibility and in a positive way have contributed to your experiences at Lambuth . . . yes even while we were collecting your tuition payments!

As a graduate of West Point, I know well the importance of tradition and I trust that as you reflect on your time at Lambuth, particularly as the class graduating during the 150th year of Lambuth, tradition will take on added importance to you too. Tradition is more than the passage of time and the good fortune to simply still be existing. Tradition is the embodiment of those core values that have been passed on generation to generation . . . not in so many words or "in class" . . . but in the daily example of staff, faculty and students going about their business.

Service, faith, academic excellence, self-development and personal integrity are words found in the catalog through our mission statement and statement of purpose. They are words. They become tradition when acted on and reflected in our daily lives. Not that we live up to them continuously, but that when we miss the mark, we know it and resolve to do better next time.

This then is the bottom-line of your four years at Lambuth — that you have learned things to guide you throughout the rest of your life and through that living, Lambuth's 150 years of tradition will be well illustrated by you. Good luck and God speed!

Dr. Joseph Thornton

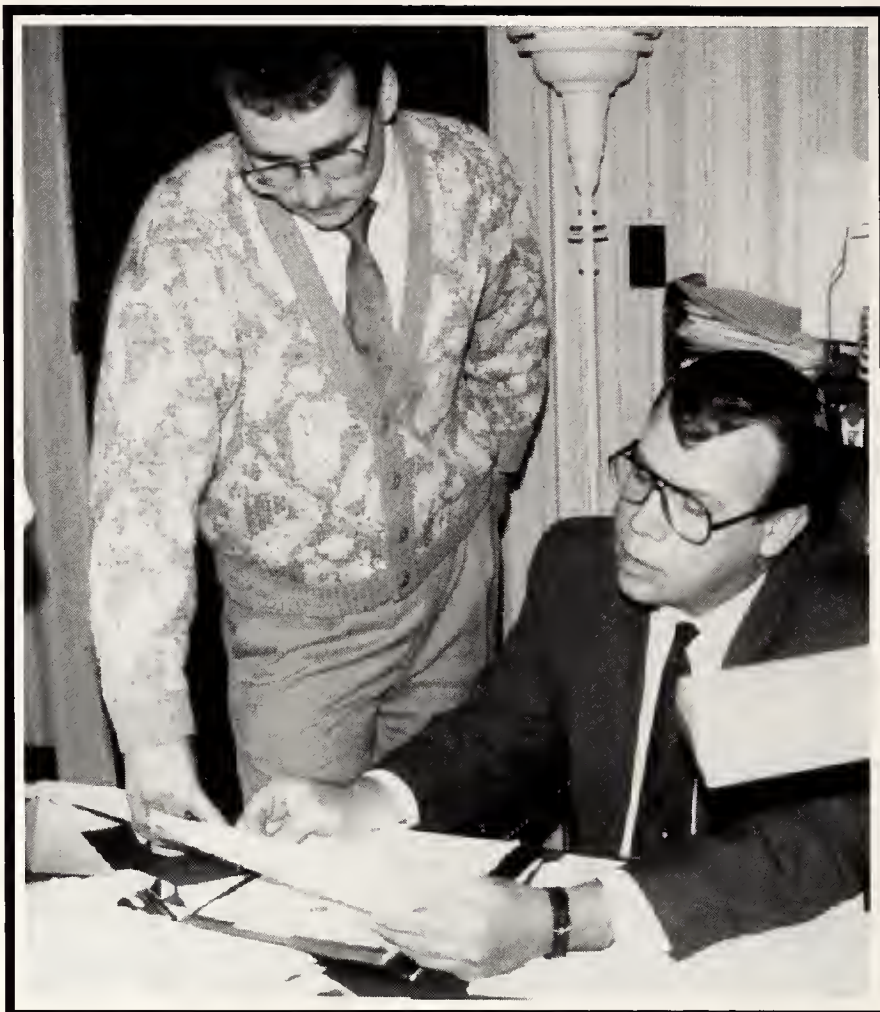

Lambuth University is the institution of higher education of the United Methodist Church in the Memphis Annual Conference. For 150 years in its leadership role in education and ministry Lambuth has provided courses of study and enrichment opportunities for clergy, laity, and students of all ages and backgrounds.

Religious life activities on campus strive to reflect the presence of Christ's church in both the college arena and the community at large.

The growth in student participation and leadership in religious life on campus deserves special recognition. Part of the Lambuth experience is to have one's understanding of stewardship and service enriched, and through involvement in the offerings of the religious life program students can discover a sense of their own calling while responding to the needs of others.

Lambuth cherishes its church heritage, and we celebrate the 150 years of our joint venture with the United Methodist Church and the Memphis Annual Conference.

Dr. Dalton J. Eddleman

The year 1993-94 is another great year for Lambuth University and for the staff members of the offices of the University Advancement area. The year began with a record enrollment of 1,165 and with half the goal of Phase I of the current philanthropic campaign already achieved with expectancies.

However, 1993-94 is a unique year in another way. Its precedent institution having been founded in 1843, Lambuth celebrates 150 years of excellence this year. Such a long and admirable heritage makes every advancement officer at Lambuth University feel a part of something firm and continuous. But even in this historical year, the advancement staff members are not content to watch yesterday's ivy still clinging to the stones. They know that the greenest ivy is that taking root today for tomorrow. So even as they celebrate Lambuth's sesquicentennial, they are working for its bicentennial in the year 2,043. They will not be here to celebrate that occasion, but they know that what they do today will make Lambuth's 200th birthday possible. While it is pleasant to remember the past, it is exciting to remember the future.

KAPPA ALPHA ORDER

Keeping the tradition of being a Gentleman.

entire staff wishes to thank Dr. William Shustowski for his service to Lambuth University. Since July 1, 1990, Dr. Shustowski has provided effective leadership as Vice President and Academic Dean. On July 1, 1994, Dean Shustowski will assume new duties as President of La College in Donaldson, Indiana. We wish him and his family every success.

Colophon

Volume 66 of the Lambuth Lantern was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. With the assistance of Dolores Landin, a design consultant for Taylor, editor Joey Hassell and advisors Dr. Bob Hazlewood and Mr. Mark Walls developed a theme around the school's motto, "Whatsoever Things Are True . . .". The cover design is in Handtooled Grain with a gold foil stamp and Maroon 360.

The body copy for the opening section was set in 14 point Amazonia with all captions set in 10 point Amazonia. All other body copy was set in 10 point Garamond with all captions set in 8 point Garamond. The cover and division pages uses Amazonia as well as Garamond. Headline type varied from section to section.

The Alma Mater which was printed on the opening page was written by Richard and Cynthia Brown, a Lambuth professor and his daughter.

Most of the black and white photographs were taken by staff photographers Brandi Ellis and Lori Faust and developed by Foto Express of Jackson. Glen Weatherly took all of the colored candid and sports shots as well as the student portraits and completed the processing and printing.

The Lantern staff would like to thank everyone — students, faculty, and others — who contributed pictures and information during Lambuth's 150th celebration. We would especially like to thank Dolores Landin and Tom Yokely of Taylor Publishing Company and the Lambuth University Office of Communication under the direction of Mrs. Leann Pruitt.
